About Midwest Chapter of the American College of Healthcare Executives

The Midwest Chapter of the American College of Healthcare Executives (MCACHE) is the local chapter of the American College of Healthcare Executives (ACHE), serving healthcare executives in Southeast Michigan and Northwest Ohio. It is our goal to provide and enhance opportunities for education, networking and information exchange that will improve our ability to serve our communities and our organizations. MCACHE offers educational and professional development opportunities on key issues affecting healthcare management. For most of our membership, MCACHE is the first place to go for up-to-date industry information. The result – our members are better equipped to serve their patients and communities in which they live and work.

Why Sponsor MCACHE

MCACHE would like to offer your organization an opportunity to gain exposure to the top healthcare organizations and management teams in the country by sponsoring the local ACHE chapter and its many activities.

We have always relied upon the support from various organizations to underwrite our numerous educational programs. For this coming year, we have developed a comprehensive corporate sponsorship program to provide maximum benefit and consistent recognition throughout the year. Sponsorship funds are vital to ensuring that we can continue to provide quality programming for our members at affordable rates.

Benefits of Sponsorship

You can gain visibility, establish vital relationships and position your products and services with the healthcare professionals in the local healthcare industry. As a sponsor, you will extend your networking with industry leaders and have opportunities to expand your knowledge of the healthcare industry and stimulate intentional connections. Your participation will also align your company with the ACHE-MCACHE brand, which is recognized as the leading healthcare organization for healthcare executives. Additionally, returning for 2020, your sponsorship will allow you to support the continued growth of your own organization with our new sponsor membership opportunities.

Most of all, your sponsorship will help provide high quality, timely and affordable education to our membership.
